THE N°. 40.

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtic.

TUESDAY, January 28, 1746.

LONDON, September 10.

THIS Day the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, waited on his Majeſty at Kenſington, with a moſt dutiful and loyal Addreſs; as yeſterday did the Commiſſioners of Lieutenancy for the City of London: To each of which his Majeſty was pleaſed to return a moſt gracious Anſwer; and conferred the Honour of Knighthood on Thomas Hankey, Eſq; one of the Commiſſioners of the ſaid Lieutenancy.

Yeſterday the Merchants of London went in a ſolemn Cavalcade to Kenſington, in 120 Coaches, in order to preſent their Addreſs to his Majeſty; which was done by John Gore, Eſq; who, after reading the Original, delivered it to the Lord Chamberlain.

The Addreſs was to the Effect following.

To the KING's Moſt Excellent MAJESTY;

The Humble Addreſs of the Merchants of the City of London.

WE your Majeſty's moſt faithful and loyal Subjects, the Merchants of your City of London, moſt humbly beg Leave to approach your Royal Perſon; and to aſſure your Majeſty, that we heartily join in the general Joy, which has been expreſſed on your Majeſty's ſafe Arrival in your Britiſh Dominions.

We reflect, with the higheſt Sentiments of Gratitude, upon your Majeſty's unwearied Endeavours to ſupport the Liberties of Europe, as well as the true Intereſts of all your Subiects; and we cannot omit this Occaſion of congratulating your Majeſty upon the great Advantages that do and will accrue to your Majeſty's Subjects, from the Diſtreſſes which the Colonies and Commerce of our Enemies have ſuffered, and eſpecially by the taking of Cape-Breton.

And as your Majeſty's Kingdoms are again diſturbed, in Favour of a popiſh Pretender to your Crown, we think it a Duty incumbent upon us, to renew the Aſſurances of our unfeigned Loyalty and Zeal to your Majeſty, and that we will continue to exert our utmoſt Endeavours in the Support of the public Credit of this Kingdom, and at all Times be ready to hazard our Lives and Fortunes in Defence of your Majeſty's Perſon, your Royal Family, and Government.

We hear that John Gore, Eſq; John Edwards, Eſq; and Gerard Van Neck, Eſq; three of the Gentlemen who went up with the above Addreſs, will be created Baronets of Great-Britain.

October 3. Tueſday in the Afternoon, Part of the Treaſure taken by the Prince Frederick and Duke Privateers, was brought to Town in 22 Waggons, and lodged in the Tower.

And yeſterday the Remainder of the Treaſure was brought through the City in 23 Waggons, and carried to the ſame Place, guarded by a great Number of Officers and Sailors, and a Party of Hawley's Regiment of Foot, preceded by Muſic.

The neat Weight of the Silver amounted to 2,644,298 Ounces; which, at 5*s*. 6*d*. the Ounce, makes 727,372*l*. 10*s*. Sterling: Beſides 5 Cheſts of wrought Plate, &c. 600 Tons of Cocoa, &c. and a Gold Church in Miniature.

Letters from Exeter bring Word, that the Lords Clinton, Falmouth, and Edgecomb, are raiſing Forces in different Parts of Devonſhire, for the Defence of our Religion and Liberties.

Tueſday a Subſcription was opened at Garraway's Coffee-Houſe, by ſeveral eminent Citizens, for raiſing Money, to be applied in providing Forces for the Defence of themſelves and the Neighbourhood of the City of London; to which was ſubſcribed in a few Hours upwards of 15000*l*.

We are aſſured, that the moſt eminent Traders at Mancheſter have entered into a large Subſcription for raiſing Forces for his Majeſty's Service; and that all Ranks of People there appear to be firmly united, and well affected to the preſent Government.

A Camp is ordered to be marked out at Dartford in Kent, for 4000 of his Majeſty's Forces.

We hear that the Right Honourable the Lord Forbes is raiſing Men for his Majeſty's Service.

There will, it is ſaid, be upwards of 20,000 regular Troops at Doncaſter in a very few Days.

This Day a fine Train of Artillery, &c. was brought from the Tower, and is to be at Barnet this Evening; and will proceed immediately to the Army under Field-Marſhal Wade.

Extract of a Letter from Berwick, dated October 10.

"We hear, when Lochall of Lochall came in to join the Rebels with 500 Recruits, he ſaid to the young Pretender, that he was much diſappointed to find him in ſuch a Situation; for he expected the Caſtle would have been in his Poſſeſſion, and a foreign Force landed before then. The young Pretender anſwered, that he was betrayed. As ſoon as General Gueſt had fired upon the City, and demoliſhed ſome Houſes, and threatened to lay the reſt level, Orders were given, that if the Garriſon would ceaſe firing, they ſhould have what Communication with the Town they pleaſed. Upon this all was quiet in a Moment, and Proviſions in Plenty carried into the Caſtle, which before they had refuſed. This occaſioned great Murmurings in the Camp: Some were for marching to England; others others declared, they only fought for Scotland, which they had got, and would keep it. This has made many Diſſentions among them, and many Parties are gone off. At preſent there is no Expectation of their coming further South. We are to have a grand Meeting here to-morrow; Mr. Blackett comes to review our Troops, and treat the Town. We expect to raiſe a very good Regiment in Northumberland, which Sir Henry Liddell is to have the Command of."

His MAJESTY's moſt gracious SPEECH to both Houſes of Parliament, on Thurſday the 17th of October, 1745.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

THE open and unnatural Rebellion, which has broke out, and is ſtill continuing in Scotland, has obliged me to call you together ſooner than I intended; and I ſhall lay nothing before you at preſent, but what immediately relates to our Security at home, reſerving all other Conſiderations to a farther Opportunity. So wicked and daring an Attempt, in favour of a popiſh Pretender to my Crown, headed by his eldeſt Son, carried on by Numbers of traiterous and deſperate Perſons within the Kingdom, and encouraged by my Enemies abroad, requires the immediate Advice and Aſſiſtance of my Parliament, to ſuppreſs and extinguiſh it. The Duty and Affection for me and my Government, and the vigilant and zealous Care for the Safety of the Nation, which have with ſo much Unanimity been ſhewn by my faithful Subjects, give me the firmeſt Aſſurance, that you are met together reſolved to act with a Spirit becoming a Time of common Danger, and with ſuch Vigour, as will end in the Confuſion of all thoſe who have engaged in, or fomented this Rebellion.

I HAVE, throughout the whole Courſe of my Reign, made the Laws of the Land the Rule of my Government, and the Preſervation of the Conſtitution in Church and State, and the Rights of my People, the main End and Aim of all my Actions. It is therefore the more aſtoniſhing, that any of My Proteſtant Subjects, who have known and enjoyed the Benefits reſulting from thence, and have heard of the imminent Dangers theſe Kingdoms were wonderfully delivered from, by the happy Revolution, ſhould by any Arts and Management be deluded into Meaſures, that muſt, at once, deſtroy Their Religion and Liberties, introduce Popery and Arbitrary Power, and ſubject Them to a foreign Yoke.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I rely on your Affection to Me, and your Care and Concern for Our Common Safety, to grant Me ſuch a Supply, as may enable Me entirely to extinguiſh this Rebellion, effectually to diſcourage any foreign Power from aſſiſting the Rebels, and to reſtore the Peace of the Kingdom; for which Purpoſe I will order the proper Eſtimates to be laid before you. Amongſt the many ill Conſequences of this wicked Attempt, the extraordinary Burthen, which it muſt bring upon My faithful Subjects, very ſenſibly affects Me. But let Thoſe anſwer for it, whoſe Treaſon has occaſioned it, and My People be convinced what they owe to thoſe Diſturbers of Our Peace, who are endeavouring to make this Kingdom a Scene of Blood and Confuſion.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

THE many evident Proofs this Parliament has given of Their Duty, Fidelity, and Affection to Me, and of Their ſteady Adherence to the preſent happy Eſtabliſhment, and the true Intereſt of Their Country, make Me repoſe Myſelf entirely on the Zeal and Vigour of your Proceedings and Reſolutions. I am confident you will act like Men, who conſider That every Thing dear and valuable to Them is attacked; and I queſtion not, but, by the Bleſſing of God, We ſhall, in a ſhort Time, ſee this Rebellion end, not only in reſtoring the Tranquility of My Government, but in procuring greater Strength to that Excellent Conſtitution, which it was deſigned to ſubvert. The Maxims of this Conſtitution ſhall ever be the Rules of My Conduct. The Intereſt of Me, and My People, is always the ſame, and inſeparable. In this Common Intereſt let Us unite; and all Thoſe, who ſhall heartily and vigorouſly exert Themſelves in this Juſt and National Cauſe, may always depend on My Protection, and Favour.

London, October 19. Laſt Week the Garriſon of Hull, in Yorkſhire, received a Reinforcement of 100 Barrels of Gunpowder, with Fire-arms for 1000 Men, and 18 Pieces of Braſs Cannon; and we hear the Inhabitants, to the Number of 2000, went voluntarily to Work upon cleaning the Moats round the Fortifications.

The Lords of the Admiralty have appointed four Men of War, two of 60, one of 50, and one of 40 Guns, to be Convoy for the Fleet of Ships at Ireland, homeward bound from the Eaſt-Indies, which have Orders to ſail from the Nore with all Expedition for that Purpoſe.

His Majeſty's Ship the South Sea Caſtle, Capt. Amhurſt, lately rebuilt at Liverpool, is ordered to be mann'd and victualled at that Place with all Expedition, for immediate Service.

We are aſſured that the City of Briſtol, by Subſcription, will make a Preſent to Capt. Conner, Commander of the Trial Privateer, of a Piece of Plate of great Value, for the Services done in taking the Spaniſh Ship bound for Scotland, laden with Ammunition, &c.

They write from Stockholm, that the French Miniſter there has of late differ'd exceedingly with Count Gyllenbourg; who, on his propoſing a new Treaty with France, could not help ſaying, That the former was the Scandal of his Adminiſtration; and that he was amazed his Excellency had not a better Opinion of his Underſtanding, than to ſuppoſe him capable of being caught a ſecond Time.

They likewiſe add, that in all Probability, this Diſpute will end either in recalling the French Miniſter, or in the Ruin of the French Party in Sweden, which has loſt within theſe three Months four of the moſt conſiderable Perſons of which it was compoſed.

We learn from Vienna, that it is reſolved the Princeſs Charlotta of Lorrain ſhall be declared Governeſs of the Grand Duchy of Tuſcany; and that immediately after the Return of the Imperial Family thither, her Serene Highneſs will ſet out for Florence.

Letters from Bruſſels ſay, that the Town of Aeth capitulated on Friday the 7th Inſtant. N. S. upon honourable Terms, the Garriſon being to march out the Wedneſday following, with two Pieces of Cannon and a Mortar; and the Lieutenant-General Count d'Etrees had Orders to inveſt St. Guilain.

The ſame Letters ſay, that General Hauſley, with a Detachment of Troops from the Army of the Allies, was arrived at Mons on the 8th, N. S. in order to conduct from thence the Engliſh Troops that marched thither from Oſtend. Theſe Letters likewiſe add, that the Count de Saxe had ſent for 150 Pieces of Cannon from the ſeveral French Garriſons in the Neighbourhood of his Camp; from whence it was concluded, that a Battle would ſpeedily enſue.

The Pretender's Second Son is at Paris, where he has been furniſh'd with large Sums of Money, and is ſpeedily to ſet out for Dunkirk, in order to embark either for Scotland or Ireland.

There are Letters from Newcaſtle which adviſe, that the Rebels at Edinburgh were erecting two Batteries to play upon the Caſtle, but the Garriſon firing upon them laſt Tueſday, obliged them to deſiſt: It's added, that General Gueſt had demanded of the Town a Supply of Proviſions, and allowed them only only six Days to consider of it; and that 1800 Highlanders, who were sent to Glasgow to demand a Contribution of 7000 Guineas, having receiv'd the same, made the best of their Way to the Highlands.

Whitehall, October 12. By Letters from Berwick of the 7th Instant there is Advice, that upon the 4th the Garrison of the Castle of Edinburgh, under Favour of a great Fire of their Cannon from the Half-moon, made a Trench cross the Castle Hill, half way between the Gate and the Houses, 14 Feet broad and 16 deep, and from the Parapet, made by the Earth dug out of the Trench on the Side near the Castle, with the Fire of 200 Men of the Garrison, clear'd the Street. Upon the 5th, by the help of the Town's People, they obtain'd twenty Black Cattle, a Quantity of Bread and Ale, and Water from the Reservoir. About Five that Evening, a considerable Detachment of the Rebels march'd up to the Castle Hill, to attack the Party of the Garrison in the Trench, who retreated into the Castle upon their Approach without losing a Man; the Rebels, in creeping up the South Side of the Hill, had twenty of their Men kill'd by the Cannon from the Castle. About Nine the same Night, between 4 and 5000 of them march'd in the Town from their Camp, and remain'd in it all Night, but none of them durst appear within the Reach of the Cannon. They were employing all the Farriers about the Town to shoe their Horses, and gave out that they intended to march upon the 8th towards Berwick, with 9000 Men. On Friday Glenbucket and Lord Ogilvy join'd them with a Reinforcement of 700 Men. They will not suffer any Provisions to be carried out to the Fox Man of War, lying in the Road of Leith, and the Captain of that Ship has taken Care to prevent any Vessel crossing the Firth. They had order'd the Landlords of all the Houses of Edinburgh to pay in Half a Crown in the Pound, of all their Rents as upon the 7th, upon Pain of Military Execution. Several People had been robb'd by them upon the Highway; and they had pillaged all the Country round about.

Bristol October, 12. Yesterday the Right Worshipful William Barnes, Esq; Mayor, Mr. Justice Foster, Recorder, and the Worshipful the Aldermen, together with the rest of the Corporation of this City, attended by a great Number of the principal Inhabitants, assembled at the Guildhall, when his Grace the Duke of Newcastle's Letter was publickly read, authorizing the Magistrates (as from his Majesty) to call the City to Arms, and to martial them into Troops or Companies, at their Discretion; as also for them to appoint proper Officers to the respective Corps; his Majesty being highly pleased with the Zeal and Unanimity of so considerable a Branch of his Subjects, and with the Loyalty which they profess for his Person and Government. After this was read, an Association was entered into for the Support of the Common Cause, when the Mayor subscribed 10000 l. in the Name of the Chamber, and the Master of the Society and Company of Merchants 5000 l in the Name of the whole Society; which was followed by a generous Subscription, of the whole Bench of Magistrates, some of whom subscribed 500 l. apiece, and others 300, 200, and 100 l. This generous and loyal Spirit was seconded by many of the Gentlemen and Merchants present in the Hall, some of whom subscribed 300, 200, and 100 l. apiece, for the same laudable and loyal Purpose; and continued to doing 'till Five o'Clock.

By the Spirit that at present appears among us, we may be bold to say, not a City in England is more firmly attach'd to his Majesty's Person and Government than that of Bristol, which, 'tis believed, will raise near 100,000 l. the first Stroke, for the Support of the Common Cause. But above all, there appears an universal Ardour among the People to martial themselves into Companies, and to learn the Art of War.

'Tis said that 40,000 l. will be subscribed by one particular Body of Men in this City.

London, October, 17. Letters from Newcastle advise, that 12,000 Danes are arriv'd; 6000 of whom are gone to Shields, and the others order'd to Scotland.

We have certain Advice from Scotland, that 200 of our Troops, lately made Prisoners by the Rebels, had made their Escape, and join'd those under the Command of General Blakeney, at Sterling-Castle.

The Troops of Sweden, taken into British Pay, will very soon be put into a Condition of embarking; and, as the Passage is very short, and the North Highlanders very well affected to his Majesty's Service, there seems to be no Reason to doubt, that the Rebels will very soon be made sensible of the Rashness and Temerity, as well as the Ingratitude and Iniquity of their Undertaking.

They write from Doncaster in Yorkshire, that Numbers of his Majesty's Forces arrive daily at the Camp near that Place; the Men are in the highest Spirits, and that no Strife subsists in that Neighbourhood, but who shall contribute most to their Accommodation, and to the Good of the common Cause. The Camp abounds with the greatest Plenty of all Kinds of Provisions, Beef being allowed them at three Halfpence per Pound, and Bread in Proportion, provided by Jacob Gomez Serra, Esq; Commissary-General of his Majesty's Forces in the North.

By the last Advices from Copenhagen, the French Minister there began to lose Ground daily; and some Propositions made to that Crown on the Part of Sweden, for a Convention among the Northern Powers, for maintaining the Peace and Independency of the German Empire, are said to be so well relished, that there is Reason to hope a Negotiation will be speedily begun, in order to ripen them into an Alliance.

On the Death of Miss PEGGY HILL.

SHE's gone, ah! gone, for evermore secure,
Relentless Death, from thy destructive Pow'r,
Which, Oh! too soon hath painfully disjoin'd
The mortal Body from th' immortal Mind;
And ev'ry Charm of that dear Frame destroy'd,
Too fine by Nature long to be enjoy'd.

The

Yet ſtill, to ſee thee dead, to ſee that Face
Which, freſh in Life, might boaſt of every Grace,
Now ſadly mould'ring in a darkſome Grave,
What Eyes o'erflow not? and what Hearts but heave?
Much more a Parent's, bound by Nature's Chain,
The burſting Torrents of their Grief reſtrain;
Which, tho' in vain, ſtill cannot ceaſe to flow:
Heav'n took thee hence, and Heav'n will have it ſo,
Who gave thee firſt, and now, ordain'd to part,
Reſumes again, as whoſe of Right thou art.

Happy, thrice happy Change! diſtinguiſh'd Fair,
Remov'd from Earth the Joys of God to ſhare;
Amidſt th' angelic Throng, divinely bright,
Thou, lovely Virgin, ſhin'ſt a Star of Light,
Whence looking down, thy Soul enlarg'd may view
The empty Triſles human Kind purſue;
Where thy exulting ſpotleſs Mind employ'd
Thanks the kind Hand thy earthy Part deſtroy'd;
Which happy Turn gave Entrance to a State
Of Joys immenſe, yet permanent as great.

Now who (ſince Death affords ſuch Bliſs) would grieve
To part with Friends? Or ev'n themſelves to leave
A toilſome World, which all our Hopes deceive?
Which Happineſs to all (in Proſpect) ſhews,
Ordain'd to follow, and ordain'd to loſe;
Unleſs 'twere natural, and th' endearing Ties
Of Blood, whence ſure this Fondneſs muſt ariſe,
Join'd to the Love of Life, and conqu'ring Dread
Fix'd on the Mind, of mixing with the Dead.

Ceaſe then, fond Parents, ceaſe, your Tears reſtrain,
Nor longer let corroding Sorrows reign;
Heav'n, that recall'd this Bleſſing, can beſtow
Comforts unthought, to ſooth a Parent's Woe:
Then yield to Fate, and pleas'd believe her free
From all the Ills of frail Mortality,
Where new Employments ſhall the Soul delight,
And wond'rous Objects ever court the Sight;
Whence contemplating (God's peculiar Love
To Man) ſhe takes ſublimeſt Joys above,
And fill'd with Rapture, every Hymn eſſays
In the Almighty's never ceaſing Praiſe.
